

MINNESOTA Parent

March 2013

CAMPS OF ALL KINDS

Sports

{Page 26}

Animals

{Page 30}

Military kids

{Page 34}

Art

{Page 36}

Yoga

{Page 59}

Writing

{Page 66}

Letters from home {Page 8}

Packing for the great outdoors {Page 16}

First time campers {Page 18}

SEVEN PAGES OF CAMP RESOURCES

{Page 71}

Departments

- 6 EDITOR'S NOTE
Our annual event
by Kathleen Stoehr
- 8 CHATTER
A little bit of news and information for your quiet time reading
By Kathleen Stoehr
- 10 BABY ON BOARD
Postpartum fitness
By Shannon Keough
- 12 ASK THE PEDIATRICIAN
Answering your questions about concussion and camp
By Dr. Peter Dehnel
- 14 IN THE KITCHEN
Food and food products we love
By Kathleen Stoehr
- 16 TWEEN SCENE
Prepping the first-time camper
By Joy Riggs
- 18 HOT STUFF
Camp kid
By Kathleen Stoehr
- 20 GROWS ON TREES
Getting your financial house in order
By Kara McGuire
- 22 BOOK SHELF
Nature and our planet
By Kathleen Stoehr
- 24 RELATIONSHIPS
On romance (belated)
By Sean Toren
- 82 REAL LIFE
Real dad Matt Wagner talks biking
By Myrna CG Mibus

Calendar

- 41 PARENT PICKS
- 42 MARCH AT A GLANCE
- 44 OUT & ABOUT

Features

26

A WIN-WIN SITUATION

When your child doesn't know what sport to focus on, this is a camp to help them explore

By Valerie Turgeon

30

UNLEASHED!

Kids and animals find connection
in this hands on camp

By Amanda Snyder

34

HIDDEN HEROES

Helping military kids understand what a parent does while deployed

By Laura Groeneweg

36

THE TALENT INSIDE

Artistic self-consciousness is quashed at
The Art Academy

By Katharina Gadow

Resources

71 CAMP LISTINGS

Sean Toren

A large, artistic photograph of a spill of M&M's candies and peanuts on a white surface. The candies are in various colors (red, yellow, green, brown) and are broken into pieces. The peanuts are also broken. The overall effect is a chaotic, colorful mess.

ON ROMANCE.
(BELATED)

PHOTO BY DANA CROATT

What—it's March already? Valentine's Day missed again? It was blown last year, too. No drawn bath with scented candles. No babysitter and dinner out. No flowers or a Whitman's Sampler or even a Hershey's kiss.

Is there a spouse in hot water? Pouting? Threats of moving my ass(ets) offshore?

No, I've been through this before. I stayed calm and told my partner 'Edna' how disappointed I was that she'd forgotten me again.

Wait...you thought I was talking about my own epic fail? Not on your life. I'm the envy of straight men and other non-romantics everywhere. I have so many 'get out of jail free' cards in my wallet I finally just had it tattooed across my forehead. I can't get in trouble for forgetting birthdays or anniversaries or greeting card holidays, because my wife forgets them first.

This is a mixed blessing for someone who survived what we gravely refer to in my family as The Great Valentine's Day Massacre of 1979.

It started with my father completely forgetting Valentine's Day. After biting her tongue most of the afternoon, my mother finally let loose—admitting that she wished Pop had gotten her something, anything, that showed he'd remembered.

Even something as simple as (hint, hint) my mother's favorite guilty pleasure at the time, "peanuts and M&Ms mixed in a bowl." This mixture allows for capricious, whimsical combinations of salt and chocolate, depending upon mood.

My father slinked out of the house to get the simple gift and cool things down, but instead made things worse by getting a big, yellow bag of peanut M&Ms (you know, a peanut INSIDE an M&M), allowing for no capricious combinations.

Things got colorful the moment he poured the M&Ms into the bowl—in the form of fiery, polychromatic sparks shooting out of my Irish-New Jersey-mother's ears.

I scooted off to my room, so I don't know if a second M&M trip was made or how they managed to resolve it. What I do know is that this was formative in my understanding of romance.

Love philosophy

To explain I'll have to address the philosophical question that heavyweights Kant and Nietzsche and Carrie from Sex in the City all wrestled with, with varying degrees of success, which is: How do we show "I-heart-you" romance? How do we prove to a partner that "you are my one-and-only"? That "I'm the only one for you"? That's what all this romance stuff is about, right?

The two-part answer we all landed on (OK, except for syphilitic Nietzsche) is: Effort—and Interest.

It sounds simple, and it is. First: the Interest part. My father made a subtle but telling mistake that proved he had not only NOT been paying attention to my mother's specific, hot-headed request for the one simple thing that would make her happy—but also that he had not been paying attention to the last couple years, where any party we had involved the serving of peanuts and M&Ms mixed together in a bowl.

What she wanted was what we all want, really (no, besides salt and chocolate)—for our partner to show enough interest to ‘get us’ and then to ‘show us’ that they get us.

Society understands this. Over time, we’ve built in almost fail-safe mechanisms for making sure the more mnemonically challenged (or shy or emotionally uptight) get a little help. I mean, what is Valentine’s Day except a way of putting a reminder on a calendar that we can’t just love our peeps, but that we need to tell our peeps that we love them, too?

Which leads me to the Effort half of the equation.

In the past, our romantic ancestors had to breaststroke across Nordic seas, stumble over prairie fires, and even stave off growling wolves (mine did, anyway) to deliver their version of edible underwear to their beloved. It was ‘easy’ for them to prove their love.

Not so now, with edible underwear deliverable with a smart phone app. And not so for my father back in ’79, either. The truth is, though, if he’d simply driven to five stores and struck out at each one, but then presented Mom with a hand-made card that said, “Lifetime supply of peanuts and M&Ms—for my little peanut!” he’d have been golden.

You can be, too. Here comes the nugget you’ve been waiting for: you have to understand your partner’s deepest, M&M-and-peanuts self—and then you have to show them that you get them—and rub it in with some elbow grease. Just exhibit a little effort like driving across town for (hint, hint) those pork dumplings I like so much (I know you’re reading this, Edna).

And if Jiaozi Express was closed and you had to go somewhere else, I wouldn’t fault you for it. Heck, a simple card would do it. Even a Post-it note. Or a little “I love you,” stuck inside a fortune cookie, or scrawled on the back of a gas station receipt. Whatever. I’m easy. A little interest. A little effort. It’s all I ask.

Sean Toren loves living the full catastrophe in Minneapolis with his wife and son. He can be contacted at mnga@mnpubs.com with thoughts or suggestions.

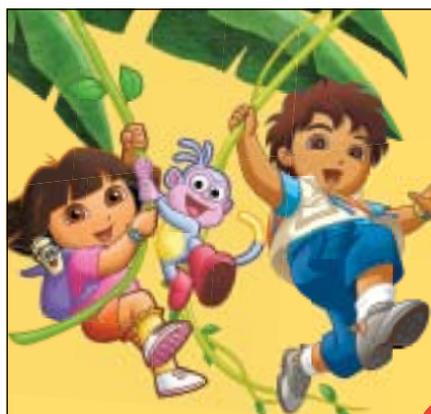

Visit Landmark Center!

- MUSEUMS
- EVENTS
- CAFE
- GIFT SHOP

LANDMARK CENTER

www.landmarkcenter.org
75 W. 5th Street | St. Paul, MN 55102

nickelodeon
DORA & DIEGO
LET'S EXPLORE!

SWING INTO ADVENTURE!
Embark on an active adventure in the enchanting world of Dora the Explorer, her animal-rescuing cousin Diego and all their friends.

EXTENDED SPRING BREAK HOURS
MARCH 11 - 14 • 9 a.m. - 6 p.m.
MARCH 25 - 30 • 9 a.m. - 8 p.m.

Sponsored locally by DELTA DENTAL Promotional support by StarTribune

Minnesota Children's Museum
Smart Play
MCM.org • 651-225-6000

Produced by The Children's Museum of Indianapolis in cooperation with Nickelodeon, the Dora and Diego—Let's Explore! exhibit is presented by the WellPoint Foundation.
©2013 Viacom International Inc. All rights reserved. Nickelodeon, Dora the Explorer, Go, Diego, Go! and all related titles, logos, and characters are trademarks of Viacom International Inc.

Pet Cremation Services of MN Because your pets are family

Private cremation performed one pet at a time • Same day service
Large assortment of pet urns • Personalization options

Call today for a FREE PET ID TAG
Request our brochure and we will send you a FREE personalized pet id tag.

SOCKS
952-555-5555

LUCY
952-555-5555

5249 West 73rd Street • Suite F • Edina, MN • 55439
952.925.1234 • www.petcremationofmn.com

Pet Cremation Services of MN